

Melbourne
M.O.O.

Sounds like a restaurant serving up large portions of dead cow? But the original Money Order Office at the rear of the new, and very swish GPO development, now houses a basement restaurant of note (sorry!), calling itself M.O.O. The room nods towards its history with leather ottomans in the lounge space, and the spacious bar invites groups to come and sup on the well-chosen, well-priced wines. The perimeter of the restaurant area offers the privacy of booths, all too comfortable to want to leave after a long lunch. Lunch is Mediterranean fare, generous of serve and flavour, based on fine ingredients and well-cooked, and often best shared in a mini degustation of your own choosing.

It feels like a fine club but has a friendly edge and interesting food and wine - great to see a beautiful old building used for wining and dining.
